

Founded in 1977, Urban Science is a strategic consulting firm that offers solutions to companies committed to increase its market share and profitability of its Distribution Networks.

Strongly oriented to customer satisfaction, Urban Science offers them a clear view of the performance of Marketing and Sales networks. Using analytical tools, Urban Science is able to assist the planning of the Commercial Networks with the definition of the optimal number, the locations, the type of operation and the services necessary to make the most of this potential in the territory. Urban Science also offers modern tools for measuring and assessing the performance of individual stores, information and training of staff working on issues both commercial management and monitoring of the implementation processes of brand standards.

Urban Science distributes services to its customers from offices located throughout the world.

For more information, please visit www.urbanscience.it

It's currently available at the Italian headquarters in Rome, the following position:

STAGE ANALYST

ACTIVITY OF THE STAGE

Provides for the inclusion in a dynamic and international environment, with real opportunities for professional growth, oriented to the objectives and work on projects that include:

- activities for quantitative analysis of markets
- development support of systems for reporting and analysis of performance
- management of reporting systems
- customizing proprietary solutions
- application of optimization methods
- use of the tools of management control

CANDIDATE PROFILE

It is a young man between 24 and 27 years graduated in technical / scientific topic (Statistics, Engineering, Computer Science, Economics and similar). The main requirements are:

- Good knowledge of MS Office, particularly Excel and Access
- basic knowledge of Statistics
- basic knowledge in the use and creation of relational databases
- basic knowledge of the fundamental principles of General Accounting
- excellent knowledge of English, written and oral
- strong results orientation, flexibility, and autonomy
- excellent communication skills and propensity to teamwork
- strong attention to detail and troubleshooting

Enhance the profile similar experience although short and familiar with the following tools:

- SQL Server
- VB / VBA,

FEATURES OF THE STAGE

- DURATION: 6 months
- MONTHLY REIMBURSEMENT: € 600 + lunch vouchers

Notice addressed to candidates of either sex (D.Lgs 198/2006)
Interested parties are invited to send English CV to the following address:

Stage_Italy@urbanscience.com